ABOUT WAAM

For over 100 years the Woodstock Artists Association & Museum (WAAM) has been committed to exhibiting, collecting and supporting artists, art education and in sustaining the tradition of Woodstock as a colony of the arts. Located in the center of the village of Woodstock, New York, the WAAM functions as a cultural center as well as a repository for the work of American artists associated with the Woodstock art colony.

WAAM presents a full schedule of contemporary exhibitions of regional artists, historic exhibitions of artworks from our landmark Permanent Collection and a diverse series of gallery talks, lectures, performances, films and special events. In addition, WAAM maintains an Archives that preserves the legacy of the Woodstock art colony and a vibrant education program that provides outreach to over 700 students annually.

Sharing the region's cultural heritage and inspiring the current and next generation of artists through programs and exhibitions is central to WAAM's mission "to promote and foster the visual arts, art education, and artists."
